After a week of "Domestic Earthquake" at the Bijou Theatre, the popular comedians, Harrisen and Gourlay, now present "Skipped by the Light of the Moon." It has previously been played here by the same company, and had a successful run. This comedy is one of the best now being played. "It's funny, very, very, very funny."

"Joshua Whitcomb" appears this week in his annual engagement at the Boston theatre. This play, in its lifelike delineation of New England life, has a never-waning interest to the public. Denman Thompson plays the title role, and has an excellent support.
