WHAT PROF. MORSE SAYS OF THE MEXICAN VILLAGE.

Salem, Oct. 1, 1886.

Messrs. Orrin Bros. & Nichols,—Gentlemen: The public are certainly indebted to you and your associates for bringing together a collection at once so unique and comprehensive as the Mexican exhibit. Not only is it of great educational value, as teaching us the industries and showing us the products of our sister republic, but it is at the same time thoroughly entertaining. The merely curiously inclined may pass a delightful hour in visiting the novelties of the Aztec fair,—the men at work at their various trades; the kitchen, with the preparation of the far-famed tortillas and cups of chocolate going on before one's eyes; the curious music by native musicians in their picturesque dress—all these features and many others make the Aztec fair a most delightful entertainment. The student of ethnology will at the same time find much point for study in the large and varied collections of antiquities, implements, pottery, products, and the like, rendered clear by the admirable catalogue which accompanies the collection. If my testimony be of any weight, I gladly add it to those you already have.

Very truly yours,

Edw. S. Morse.

Special arrangements can be made with the management of the Mexican Village for schools at reduced rates.
