begins a four weeks' season at the Boston Theatre March 23d. Miss Davenport has always been a favorite everywhere, and this season brings a good support, and the productions will be sumptuously staged. "Fredora," "Cleopatra" and "La Tosca" will be given.

PARK THEATRE.—Robert Hilliard is drawing fine audiences at the Park Theatre this week with his great comedy, "Lost 24 Hours." The play is preceded by a charming curtain raiser, "The Littlest Girl," from Richard Harding Davis's story, "Her First Appearance."

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Palmer Cox's Brownies come to the Hollis Street Theatre March 23d. It is a truly wonderful production and is sure of an enthusiastic reception. The novel extravaganz presents a fairy realm with a wedding of the Brownie prince. There are marvelous scenic effects. An illuminated mandolin serenade to the moon, an oriental dance of slave girls, an exhibition of demon acrobats, in short, a rare and dazzling evening's entertainment.

Boston Museum.—"The Gay Parisians" continues to entertain crowded houses. The play is charmingly amusing, not in the least coarse, but full of merry, laughter-making situations. The comedietta "Six Months Ago," which is given at every performance, has been especially well received.
