Week beginning April 6, 1896.

Tremont Theatre.—April 6th De' Wolf Toppper, the Boston favorite, will open his engagement at the Tremont Theatre with his brilliant company in "Wang," which will delight the Boston public, and he is assured crowded houses during his entire engagement.

Castle Square Theatre.—"Lucia di Lammermoor" will continue to crowd this fascinating opera house, where opera has taken up a permanent abode. The season of grand opera has been a tremendous success, and Mlle. Fatmouh Diard filled the role of Lucia to the entire satisfaction of the most severe critics, and our regular favorites, Wolf, Murray and Persse, deserve fresh laurels for their wonderful versatility.

Boston Theatre.—Miss Fanny Davenport has been achieving great success in her engagement at the Boston Theatre. No such lavish display of fine scenic effects has been seen in plays of the same character for years, as Miss Davenport spares no expense in her productions, while Miss Davenport herself is probably the representative actress on the American stage of to-day.

Park Theatre.—On Easter Monday "Charley's Aunt" is booked for the attraction at the Park Theatre. It comes with an entirely new cast. It is always a sufficient attraction to crowd any house.

Hollis Street Theatre.—Mr. Crane has been delighting the crowded audiences which greeted him nightly at the Hollis Theatre, and next week we are to have "The Kentucky Colonel," which, like all of Mr. Crane's plays, is full of action and up-to-date topics of interest. You will always get the latest phase of political life in Crane's plays, and young political aspirants can't afford to miss him.

Boston Museum.—Duse will make her appearance at the Boston Museum April 6th. Duse's fame has preceded her, although during her visit to America she appeared in few cities only, Duse has achieved great success throughout Europe, where triumph followed triumph and critics vied with each other in praising her marvelous dramatic instinct, her versatility and her artistic sincerity. She will undoubtedly receive an ovation in Boston.
