ANYTHING better than a yell for the "Red and Gray" cannot be conceived when an opportunity offers, but the followers of the colors we all love should use some of their proverbially mighty intellects to distinguish between an opportunity and a wrong moment at which to shout for the M. I. T. Juniors, who might be supposed to have lived long enough to know a few of the usages of respectable society, should know better than to stand in front of a work-shop in East Boston and give the M. I. T. yell. One of the workmen was heard to say, "Damned Harvard fools," and his statement was perfectly true if we cross out the second word. The next step will be to cheer in a theatre or in the middle of a Symphony Concert. It should always be remembered that the space in front of a shop is not a football field; that a theatre is not a meeting of the Technology Club. Everything in existence has its proper place, where it cannot generally be overdone; out of this place, however, its use is more than likely to lead to abuse.

INCE the new building for the Institute has ceased to be only a pleasant dream, and become an assured fact, it is to be hoped that the matter of a trophy room may be again taken up by the Institute Committee. In the shifting of departments which will take place upon the completion of this building, it should surely be possible to obtain a small space in Rogers for this really worthy purpose. Such a room, if founded and carried out along broad lines, would undoubtedly pave the way for a deeper and more enthusiastic feeling among the students for the Institute as their Alma Mater. To this end, if space can be secured, it should be aimed to make it if possible a complete museum of student life. Once started, material would surely not be lacking. To the numerous banners, cups, etc., now on hand, might be added, for instance, photographs of all the athletic teams, whether class or 'varsity, the musical organizations, the photographs of the Junior Class taken each year, the Institute Committee, Tech Board, Cadet officers, as well as all printed posters relating to cane-rushes, games,
