156 TREMONT STREET

Hollis Street Theatre.

William Gillette is one of the most popular stars here, and the announcement of his coming is enough to pack the Hollis. His visit is particularly welcome, for he brings "The Admirable Crichton," J. M. Barrie's comedy, which ran all last winter in New York, and had an equal London triumph.

Park Theatre.

May Irwin has never made a greater success in Boston than in "Mrs. Black is Back," and her return to the stage is the talk of the town. She is funnier than ever, and the songs which she sings are whistled everywhere. This is her last week, as she must now go to New York for a long engagement.

Colonial Theatre.

Fritzi Scheff is the idol of all the college boys in town, and they are of the universal opinion that "The Two Roses" is one of the daintiest and brightest comic operas ever seen in Boston. The vivacious prima donna is just as fascinating as ever, and sings delightfully as Rose.

Chess Club.

The first meeting of the Chess Club of Technology was held last Saturday. Nominations were made for officers for the coming year.
