NOYES BROTHERS
Washington and Summer Streets, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Hollis Street Theatre.
E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe are in Boston at last, in their first joint starring tour in Shakespearean plays, and Bostonians have a rare opportunity to get a fine Foreign performance which has ever been played on the American stage.

Colonial Theatre.
Madame Schumann-Heink is a welcome visitor at the Colonial Theatre, for she has always been a favorite of the Grand Opera audiences here. Mrs. Macbeth, with her rich voice and exuberant emotion, has brought to America her deep feeling and power of expression, which has been admired by all who have heard her before.

Park Theatre.
Otie Skinner has only the present week left of his engagement at the Park Theatre, where “The Harvest-ter” has proved the greatest artistic success that this favorite has ever won in Boston. Jean Richepin’s drama is a powerful picture of French Canadian life, Mr. Skinner’s superb work is helped by the efforts of the strong supporting company which is the same that has been seen in New York.
