Four men, two from Harvard, one from Amherst, and R. K. Hack from Williams qualified this year.

A Williams Senior, R. K. Hack, has been awarded the Rhodes scholarship from Massachusetts.

The competition for the Assistant Business Managers of The Institute will begin on April 10. All those desiring to compete please leave their names before that date at the Cage for the Business Manager.

INSTITUTE BUSINESS STAFF.

The opening of the track athletic season has made it evident that their is among the two lower classes a decided lack of enthusiasm for our only varsity team. A few Sophomores and Freshmen have turned out and are doing creditable work, but the proportion of lower classes who are training is exceptionally small. In fact many of the upper classes are now working more than members of the Freshman and Sophomore classes combined, a previous unheard of state of affairs. The lower classes are all the more at fault, for they have by their interest in class contests shown beyond question that they possess plenty of capable material.
