The work so far on the show has been largely preliminary and has been devoted to familiarizing the men with their parts, steps and songs. This past week, under the direction of Mr. James Francis of New York, "business" has been introduced and the general form of the work has been directed toward perfecting the show as a whole. Mr. Francis has charge of the stage business in "The Follies," and his work at the last three rehearsals of "The Chemical Maid" has shown that he is indeed an able theatrical coach.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The inn-keeper, Heinie, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.

The scene of "The Chemical Maid" is laid in and around Festalburg, Holland. The action opens upon a crowd of students from the University of Festalburg, who are spending their holiday at the inn of an old German. The inn-keeper, Heinz, threatens to arrest them all, when some semi-serious business arises. The inn is a stopping place on a coach. The work of the students is so well done that they are ready for distribution.