COMMUNICATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TECH :

Dear Sir, the Class of 1908 has had little need of criticism and we have had cause for admiration of the feeling of unity and good fellowship often observed in that class, not only amongst themselves, but also toward the rest of the fellows at this Institute. But, Mr. Editor, I should like, through your columns, to call attention to the fact that the Sophomore Class has for once forgotten itself by ordering class pipes before Field Day, 1905, and should like, through the same medium, to urge that class to preserve the same good judgment which has so characterized most of its actions in the past, and take immediate steps to rectify this error. Of course, if they should win Field Day, then there would be no need of saying anything of the matter, except perhaps to congratulate them upon so cleverly having secured the right to their pipes. But if Field Day, 1905, be won by their opponents, the matter would then be unfortunate in every way.
