1908 WINS RELAY RACE.

The Relay Race was hardly in doubt after the first relay was finished. Todd, '08, ran away from his quarry after a good start, and was three-quarters ahead of his man after a good start. He was passed, however, by Ebeaum, Tech '07, at the finish. The next man in the order was P. J. Clapp, Tech '06, followed by Miller and Hubbard of Harvard. Adams, Tech '06, came next, with Stone and Withington of Harvard. These two eleventh men came in fine. Only the first twelve men counted in the score, and Harvard won. The ball was thrown for 8 yds. loss, the Tech record made up by Lorena last year, by 8 seconds. The order of finishing of the first twelve was:

HARVARD. TECH.

1. Adams, Harvard 6
2. Stone, Harvard 5
3. Miller, Harvard 4
4. H. King, Harvard 3
5. P. J. Clapp, Tech 2
6. Ellam, Tech 1
7. Turner, Harvard 1
8. Jackman, Harvard 0
9. Hunt, Harvard 0
10. C. C. C. Krueger, Tech 0
11. Calloway, Tech 0
12. Wood, Harvard 1

Next week will be positively the last home game, as Harvard goes to New York and then to London, so that next week will be their positive farewell.

AT THE THEATRES.

Hollis Street Theatre.

Willa Glaser will have the most enthusiastic sort of an audience when she comes to the Hollis Street Theatre next week, for she is one of the great-favorites who are coming in the course of the season. Her triumphs in "A Madcap Princess" and "Varden" have been completely eclipsed by "Miss Dolly Dollarary," a spightly and up-to-date comedy, the best work of Henry B. Smith and Herbert Victor. Miss Glaser plays a young American heroine traveling in Europe, and her adventures with title noblemen are decidedly amusing. The company provided by Charles Dillingham is unusually strong, and is exactly the same as that which has appeared with her throughout her two engagements in New York since the opening of the present season.

Colonial Theatre.

One week more is positively all that can remain for "The Prodigal Son." This Boston underplaying of the play is unfortunately received here and the general verdict is that it is the most powerful play written for the stage in Caline. The force of the Romance of quim Ireland is brought out in the play, and one is forced to admit that it is the most powerful and moving play which has appeared this season. The story, as with all the characters in the play, is triumph that has been seen in years, and the author, as with all the characters in the play, is triumph that has been seen in years, and the author, as the leading cities.

Park Theatre.

"The Lion and the Mouse" has been a notable Boston triumph of late and for three splendid weeks it has held the stage at the Park Theatre, and the public is no question but that it might continue to do so for weeks to come, were it not for the imperative engagement booked by Henry B. Harris to open at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, a week from Monday evening.

Next week will be positively the last home game, as Harvard goes to New York and then to London, so that next week will be their positive farewell.

Tremont Theatre.

The Tremont Theatre offers next Monday a production of George Ade's pungent comedy, "The County Chairman," with Mary Lucy in the title role. This play will be a welcome relief to lovers of that kind of stage entertainment which provokes laughter without effort. Mr. Ade is a writer whose efforts have always been wasted receiving Boston attention, but "The County Chairman" comes for a second time with the original cast, and is sure on the Boston crowd. Houses will greet the favorites who scored here so distinctly last season. Heading the list is the well-known comedian Mary Arbuckle, who has been measured to a nicety by the playwright's pen of Jim Harker, whose portrayal of the bluff, good-hearted policeman has made him one of the most frequently important to be seen in years.

Castle Square Theatre.

With "The Sword of the King" next week romantic drama will hold the
