Columbia College students recently hied President Butler’s name at a public meeting, lowered the college flag to half-mast, and issued the Columbia Spectator with mourning borders, all on account of President Butler’s opposition to athletics at Columbia. The next utterance of President Butler on the subject was to the effect that it was not his intention to suppress athletics, but to provide contests for all students instead of for a few especially trained ones.

We take pleasure in catering to our Tech patrons, and hope for a continuance of their trade.

By the way, we cannot be seen in our usual first-class service. New room is in rear.

TO THE THEATRES.

City Theatre.

The second week of "The Gal- loper," at the City Theatre starts off auspiciously tonight. The success of Raymond Hitchcock in the new Richard Harding Davis ebook is a certainty. The audiences have well-nigh tested the capacity of the theatre at every performance. Both star and principals receive repeated curtain calls after each act, and Mr. Hitchcock has been obliged to address his audience at every performance. A Hitchcock curtain speech is in itself almost worth the price of admission. The Boston press has enthusiastically endorsed the play, the star, the company and the production, and it is doubtful if a more generally successful farce has been presented in a Boston theatre in years. For a genuine evening’s entertainment the admonition is go and see Hitchcock in “The Gal loper.”

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The success of “Oliver Twist,” the Dickens drama which has been running during the past week at the Castle Square Theatre, compels the management to announce the continuance of this play for one more week. The new version of the story, as a four-act drama by Mr. Comyns Carr, written especially for Mr. John boy Tree, has delighted Castle Square audiences of large numbers, and enters tonight most promisingly on its second and last week.
