AT THE THEATRES.

The Tremont Theatre.

The Tremont Theatre will have another novelty during a limited engagement beginning February 12, when Messrs. Stilbert will present Miss Paula Edwards in the new fantastic opera, “Princess Beggar,” for the first time here. This piece, which is in two acts, is due to the collaboration of Edward Paulton, the author of “Noire” and co-author of “Erminia,” and Alfred G. Robyn, the composer of “The Yankee Comal.” Mr. Paulon has placed his story in one of those imaginary Teutonic kingdoms so beloved of comic opera librettists, which permits of effective scenery and costume display.

Castle Square Theatre.

One of the most important pro- ductions of the season will be made by the Boston Stage Society at the Castle Square Theatre. By arrange- ment with E. H. Sothern “The Proud Prince” will be given its first stock company presentation in Boston, with all the scenery, cos- tunes and electrical effects that made that play a notable feature of Mr. Sothern’s repertory several seasons ago.
