The next issue of TECH, number forty-five, will appear on Wednesday, January 16th.

Bursar I rank H. Rand up at Tech is receiving all the old ink wells and bottles the students can raise up. It seems that Monday someone appropriated the inkwell which belongs at the cash window. As a result one of the young ladies in the office sought the aid of TECH in search of the same. The loss was duly announced in yesterday's paper and immediately the influx of ink bottles began. Some of them are rather picturesque, and nearly all bear some witty remark suitable for the occasion. The bursar still wears a smile. —Boston Post.

The Tech desires to call attention of those men who will be in New York during the mid-year vacation to the trip at Tech which the basketball trip is to make to New York. The returns of which appear in another column. These men are urged to attend the games and to make their presence known to the players, both by personal visits before, and by cheering and applause during the game. Whether or not the team will make similar trips in the future depends upon the success of this trip, and every Tech man who can possibly do so, should give the team his support during the games.
