HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

William Faversham will have a doubly interesting week at the Hollis Street Theatre next week, for, in addition to the final performances here of "The Squaw Man," he will give the first presentation on any stage of "The World and His Wife," a play adapted from the Spanish masterpiece, "El Gran Calato," which will be produced at the special matinee on Tuesday afternoon. At all the rest of the week, there will be performances of "The Squaw Man" which has duplicated here its New York triumph.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Ottis Skinner is going to have a royal welcome back to Boston at the Colonial Theatre next Monday evening. He has not been seen here for nearly two years, and in that period of absence he has scored his greatest success with "The Dust." That ran in New York nearly last season, and proved a duplication of the experience that it had in Paris. The work is the masterpiece of Henri Lavedan, and it will be enacted here by the strongest company that could possibly be secured by Charles Frohman.

PARK THEATRE.

All the students about Boston will make their headquarters around the Park Theatre after next Monday, for there Hattie Williams comes for her first engagement upon the local stage as a star. This popular comedianne is a Boston girl, and all her successes have touched a responsive spot hereabouts. She will bring a company of clever comedians and pretty girls, among the former being James Blakeley, the English comedian, and Thomas A. Wise.

MAY BE NEW PRIXY.

The visit to Boston of Harry A. Garfield, professor of American politics at Princeton and son of the late President James A. Garfield, has revived the rumor that he is to succeed Dr. Pritchett as President of the Institute. Prof. Garfield came here ostensibly to address the Williams College Alumni Association at their banquet on Saturday evening, but it is reported that he held a consultation with several of the Technology officials while in town. It is known that Prof. Garfield has been considered, among a great many others, as a successor to Dr. Pritchett, but his brother, J. McD. Garfield, said on Sunday that there seemed to be no reason for Prof. Garfield's trip to Boston other than the Williams College dinner.
