ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS.

Talk Given by President at Harvard Union During Recent Visit.

President Roosevelt delivered an address at Harvard on Feb. 23, under the auspices of the Political Club, which was fully reported in the press at the time. His text has already been spoken and these have been published and sent out to the various clubs in the Intercollegiate Council.

The Taconic is able to print only parts of the speech, but the whole extract is to be discussed at a Civic Club meeting on March 29.

"You here when you graduate will take up many different kinds of work; but there is one work in which all of you should take part silently, and that is the work of self-government. Remember, in the first place, the native who is worked for a year of government does not in the least mean of necessity to hold office. It is an exercise of disinterested and practical part in the everyday duties of the average citizen, of the citizen who is not a feudal or a doctrinaire, but who always has been alive to the principles of efficiency; who wishes to see decent government prevail at home as well as abroad; who has an opportunity for all men so far as it is humanly possible to raise $50 to pay the expenses. This will be the first year that the event will be represented in the Philadelphia games. The announcement of the entry was to have been made at the Track Team dinner tomorrow night but because of an apparent success of last year, the prospects for a well-balanced team are very strong in spite of the loss of graduation of several of the good men in parallel bars, side horse and rings, the great success, more than two hundred persons being present. The horizontal bar, ring work and the tumbling were especially well done. It is hoped that all men who are interested will report to Mr. Towne, and practice regularly as the exhibition opens this year and may be up to the standard of the past.

TO TALK ON INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS.

Mr. C. W. Whittaker, General Superintendence of the Welsbach Company, will give a series of talks on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday March 27-29, to 4.15 P.M., in 23 Walker. These talks will be on "Factors in Organization," "Cost Keeping and Accounting," and "Employer and Employee," and promise to be of much interest and practical value to Institute students.

The Welsbach Company is well known for its excellent organization and the relations between employees and employers, and Mr. Whittaker, who has interested himself especially in this phase of the work, should be well prepared to talk on these subjects.

The talks are open to all Institute students, but students in Course X, X. VIII., and Seniors in Course II are especially invited to attend. A full attendance is requested.

J. W. WALKER.

TO SPEAK ON GAS ENGINES.

Mr. H. W. True, of the True Gas Power System will speak before the members of the Mechanic Engineering Society on Thursday, March 28, in Course II. Mr. True has long been connected with the gas business and producer industry and will speak on the practical operation and installation of this new source of power. The gas engine is constantly growing in favor, and the society is especially fortunate in having this subject pressed this year.

The meeting will be held at the Union at 8 P.M., and as usual refreshments will be served.

EUGENE FOSS AT KOMMERS.

This week's Kommers is to be well attended as a man prominent in and about the town in many different lines is to speak. Mr. Eugene Foss of the Sturtevant Flower Co., state politician, and personal friend of Burrard Rand is to speak. Mr. Foss has had experiences in Europe and on the German University. Although Mr. Foss never went to the Institute, both he and his business concern have always been very friendly towards Tech, and have helped it frequently in a business way. In politics many will remember that Mr. Foss opposed Mr. Draper, of the Tech Corporation, for the office of Lieutenant Governor, and in spite of the fact that Mr. Draper won out, Mr. Foss is still prominent in the politics of Massachusetts. Personally the speaker could not come better recommended to us than as a personal friend of Burrard, and we may well expect something more than information.

It is probable that many more faculty members will be seen at the Kommers in the future than one of the general student body. Mr. Foss is still prominent in the politics of Massachusetts. Personally the speaker could not come better recommended to us than as a personal friend of Burrard, and we may well expect something more than information.
