ARCHITECTS AFTER BIG PRICE.
Nine architects, including two former-fifth-year students, made their preliminary twelve-hour sketch of "A Soldier's Home," the problem in the competition for the twelve hundred dollar traveling scholarship of the Department, Friday. The competition is to run for five weeks and the drawings will be made "en l'oge" without any criticism. The competition is open only to men who have spent at least two years at the Institute, one of these in the graduating class. The winner will spend one year in foreign travel and study, the program to be arranged in consultation with the Department of Architecture.

The problem is to design a home for army and navy veterans, to be situated on a large river near a prominent military station, such as Fortress Monroe. The architectural feature of the home is to be a glorious Pantheon, containing military and naval trophies, to be guarded sacredly by the veterans.

TECHNIQUE EDITION IS LIMITED.
Tickets for Technique '07 are now on sale. The editors are going to print only a limited edition of the book this year, and will base the number of tickets which have been sold. The editors do not wish to have a large number of books on their hands after Junior Week. Tickets can be procured of any of the men on the Board of Editors or at the Cage.
