ATHLETIC MEETING POORLY ATTENDED.

B. C. McMurtrie Elected Manager of Track.

Other Routine Business is Enacted.

At the meeting of the new Athletic Association, held in 20 Enges, officers and a track manager and an assistant hockey manager were elected. The attendance was poor; there were barely a dozen present, and this was a queer meeting. Poor attendance, it is said, was evidence of an insensate desire of the members.

The members present were: H. E. Allen '08, R. W. Varick '08, L. R. B. 0. '08, J. T. Tobin '08, H. H. Howland '08, H. Callaway '09, C. W. Whittemore '09, H. A. L. Moore '09, C. W. Stein '09, J. F. Allen '09, R. B. Avery '09, H. C. McMurtrie '09, W. J. Kelley '09, J. Avery '10, F. L. H. Callaway '08, C. W. Whittemore '08, H. R. Parlin '07, who managed the show the year before, rose to the position through Parlin's resignation.

The attendance upon Prof. Pearson's talk at the Y. M. I. C. A. meeting in the Field this week will have to do some tall running to get the whole team to run. The trials will be run on the track at Harvard. This is a mile one mile around, and six and a quarter laps will have to be run.

The meeting was poorly attended. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position should be held at all times by one fitted for the place regardless of personal connection.

The president made the point that at the beginning of year, the association would decide who had done all of the work this fall since the position was held.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.

The first idea put forward was that the manager could take charge of the team. It was then brought out by one of the members that the position of the manager would be taken by one who had done all the work of the season. The manager would have to be elected.

President Glover then appointed John Allen '11, Carl R. Scharff '09, and Henry F. Barlow '10, two assistants in the advertising department. There is an exception to this, however, these men must be eligible for the position. They were placed there that they might be there when the competition for the place of assistant to elect to the position of manager.