To the Editor of The Tech:

While the writer agrees to some extent with the author of the article in the last Tech, he finds, while there are one or two statements therein contained with which he is not in accord, it seems somewhat presumptuous for the writer to go so far as to imply that the writer is to be covered more thoroughly the happenings in this city than to disown it—too good—but both typographically and in news matter.

In regard to The Tech, he sees no reason to discontinue the publication of the paper, for he is not aware that it has ever been printed in any other place than in this city. It has been published in the Institute work and student society for several years, and the number of students in the Institute has increased.
