As I watched the fellows, last Thursday, go through their songs and dances, and saw them spill into the large and roomy hall of the same high standard, I said to myself the following question: If Tech is able to produce a theatrical team of such high caliber, why can't it also produce a varsity base-ball team of the same high standard? It is true that we have a track team, a basketball team, a fencing team, a hockey team, and a rifle team. But the test is none of those sports applied to the same standard of skill. But baseball—well, baseball acts like a magnifier for it drives the boys in such a way that they can't resist it.

It would be a joy to see Tech have a very well-instructed basseball team. A number of New England colleges are now being reorganized for the game. Surely we ought to be able to pick a team that would be equal to any in the 1200 standards. It is because we lack the money to carry the project through. Twenty-five cents from every member of the school would be more than sufficient to pay for all necessary expenses. Or is it true that we haven't got the required sum? Indeed, if 90 or 75 cents a day are 2 hours a day for 50 or 60 days practising and playing, surely 12 or 15 fellows can spare the same amount of time and give Tech a good varsity baseball team.

NEW DEMONSTRATION APPARATUS.
Communion Device Designed in Electrical Engineering Department.

Demonstration apparatus, recently incorporated upon in the Electrical and the Revue Electricitie, has been constructed in the electrical engineering department and is designed for the purpose of illustrating the theory of commutation.

The apparatus consists of two parts, one of which shows now communication with a low resistance metallic brush is affected by the magnitude of the reversing E. M. F. by the self-inductance of the coil, by the reactive flux of the current to be reversed and by the time available for communication, while the other shows how communication is assisted by a brush of high contact resistance independently of all other factors.

INTERScholastic Drill

Annual Prep School Competition at Armoury Today.

Under the auspices of the freshmen battalion the untimely interscholastic drill will be held this afternoon at the armourry. Squeals of three men have been raised from schools all over New England. Cops will be awarded to the winner, and individuals. A higher drill will not begin until three o'clock when battalion manoeuvres will occupy a half hour followed by the scholastic competition. Admission will be charged to those not members of the battalion.
