FENCING BEGINS

First Meet of Season with Y.M.C.A. on Saturday

Intercollegiate fencing will become one of the foremost winter sports at the Institute, if the present plans of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association are put into effect this year. The most prominent new feature of the season will be the admission of the fencing league of the colleges of the middle west which have proficient teams. At present the association consists of the following colleges:—Harvard, Yale, Columbia, West Point, Amoskeag, Pennsylvania, Princeton, T. U., and Cornell.

At Technology every man who has taken up the sport and who has 50 cents to spare is promised a chance to challenge the 'A' or 'B' men and make up for the poor work of last year. The team will consist of three men from each class and the fencing will be in the afternoon. This year the Technology team will not be behind the larger colleges; last year, however, the two severely handicapped and made a poorer showing than was expected. It is up to the men this year to make up for the poor work of last year and to put the Tech team at the top again. At the present time there are even dozen men in the fencing club, and from this number the following men have been picked to represent Technology at the first meet of the season which will occur next Saturday—Oberling, B. M. Loring, 1900; Keckler, R. K. Chadlah, Capt., and Captain V. C. Graham 1909.

The meet next Saturday is with the Boston, M. C. A. The meet promises to be a good one, and the first bout of the season should prove a great attraction.

A week from Saturday the Tech team will meet Springfield Training School at Worcester.
