10 PER CENT OFF TO TECHNOLOGY STUDENTS

A. N. COOK & CO., 161 Tremont St., Boston, U. S. A.

ROGERS ANNIVERSARY

arly way; an institution which in the freedom from snobbishness among its students, in the spirit of cooperation among those students, and between undergraduate and instructor, in the absence of rank lists, honorary degrees, and other old-world inheritances, is a true democracy.

President Rogers' further aim was to have the Institute become eventually a university based upon pure applied science, but broadening into philosophy, a true university, moreover, where, on the one hand, the advanced student should have every faculty for probing the deepest scientific problems, and where, on the other hand, the humblest mechanic should find substantial educational help.

Dying at the graduation exercises, May 30, 1882, President Rogers lived only long enough to see the Institute emerge from the doubt and extreme poverty of the experimental stage. But he had foreseen the extraordinary industrial development of the last twenty years in which Technology men have had so large a place, and he had planned an institute broad enough to meet it. That those men have kept pace with the educational and industrial demands, that they have given the Institute its high reputation among colleges, is because, through the teaching of the Faculty and through the traditions of the school, they have been imbued with the character of the Founder, who not only established the Institute of Technology, but who created also the Technology atmosphere and spirit. Other college founders have endowed with money; Rogers gave something of far more worth—himself.
