FRESHMAN DINNER

he does not come up to the standard set here, the faculty is forced to ask him to leave. The Dean said that the faculty do not believe in publishing the men's names and no one knows why they were asked to leave except the men themselves and the faculty. He said that the men are treated in all fairness, that they are confronted with the evidence against them, that they are placed before a committee of the faculty under whom they are not receiving instruction and who then report to the faculty what they think should be done. He said that the faculty do not believe that it is right that the men should have shame brought upon them, but that they do think that large bodies of men gathered together as at a class dinner should be told about it.

He said that the best thing a man can do is to do his own work, and it is the ruin of his scientific training when he copies his neighbor's. The faculty does not have graded punishment for such cases, they do not believe in this expulsion as a punishment but they do believe that when a man has failed to pass his examination in character he must be asked to leave the Institute. Men are sometimes readmitted in later years after they have spent several years in the world and when they show that they have at last been able to pass their examination in character. He said: "We ask you not to try to square up your work when you have been absent by cribbing or by offering as an excuse that you have been sick when you have not been, and I would much rather you would say when you come to me that you were late or cut and tell the truth. The excuse may not be a good one but it is always best to be honest and I like it better."

Professor Blackstein closed the speech making of the evening with a short talk which he enlivened with a few of his characteristic witty stories. The evening came to close with a rousing cheer for President Noyes who was unable to attend the dinner although asked.

BIG INDOOR MEET

tain. Both men placed well in the Princeton race and a fine exhibition of running may be looked for with a closely contested finish. Other good men in this event are H. S. Benson 1912 and J. N. Stephenson 1909.

The hurdles will be a good race between Pead, Cummings, and Mason, all juniors. Cummings won this race last year. Mason is the old Harvard star, while Pead who won fourth last year has improved wonderfully and looks like the winner this year.

The high jump will be a close contest between the two varsity stars R. H. Allen 1909, E. Stuart 1910, and P. W. Dalrymple, the allround freshman. Both Allen and Stuart have won their "T" in intercollegiate competition. Dalrymple won this event at the fall meet and at the freshmen meets.

The shot put looks like a sure thing for Gott 1910, captain of the gym team. He has been putting the shot over 36 feet, more than three feet further than his opponents. D. V. Williamson 1910 and J. Becker 1912 have also done good work.

In the pole vault the only men of any class are W. D. Allen and Salisbury. Both are sophomores and are sure of the two first places.

STUDENTS TEST PLANT

A hundred-hour test on the large engine and dynamo at the North end of Lowell laboratory is being conducted by seniors of Courses II, VI, and XIIIa. This test started Monday morning at eight o'clock and continues until midnight tonight.

During this time everything having to do with the running of the plant will be measured; the coal and water consumed, the thermal activity, the heat lost up the stack, and the electrical output are all noted. An analysis of ash and furnace gases will be made by students of Course V. Measurements are taken every fifteen minutes day and night by eight hour shifts.

A new feature introduced this year for the first time is the determination by students from their own data of the cost of the power.
