Juniors at Rogers steps this noon

Dartmouth at the Gym tonight. There were more men from Medford at the Tufts game last week than from the Institute and they outcheered us at every point. Might that not have been a factor in the result?

Some men need to be reminded that it is the bulletin-board committee that has the right to remove posters from the boards, and not any one who sees a poster that would look good over his shaving stand.

Technique is set down upon its title page as being "published by the junior class of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology." If you are a junior, have you done your share? This work is too often left entirely to the editors. You can sit down and dash off a half dozen grinds, draw a heading or two, or compose a class history much easier than an editor who is already working overtime to make good what you and your neighbors have left undone. It's nice to say after the annual comes out "Best Technique ever published, and we did it, the class of 1910"; but if you don't wish to be a hypocrite you'll get busy now and do your share before it is too late.

Pennsylvania seems to be up against it in the athletic line. Coach Mike Murphy has written a letter to The Pennsylvanian setting forth the facts as to the poor support given by the students and asking that something be done.

Technology hasn't need of that this year, but The Pennsylvanian's editorial comment on the letter so vitally touches the truth as to the spirit shown in most American colleges, even at the Institute, that The Tech takes the liberty of quoting.

"Too many men will not do anything unless they are assured they will get something out of it. It is sickening. There is too much sitting around the fire and indulging in 'pipe dreams', as Mike Murphy aptly puts it. The men who do things . . . are not the men who criticize what others are attempting to do. They are too busy doing their duty and have no time to find fault."

DR. PRITCHETT PRAISED

In a recent number of the Journal of Education attention was called to the fact that Dr. Henry S. Pritchett resigned the presidency of the Institute in order that he might accept the direction of Carnegie's great work for the relief of college professors and other leading educators. In this position the Journal says that Dr. Pritchett's wisdom is modifying all the principles and practices of practically every college and university in the country, and that in time when his work has become sufficiently developed it will present a story the like of which can be written of no other man in educational service today.

1912 STRENGTH TESTS

After several weeks of work the statistics of the freshman class have been compiled and from these statistics the following men are found to be the strong men of the class. Every strength test and measurement counts so many points and these are then added up to make the total. C. F. Higgins of Worcester is the strong man of the class having 865 points out of a possible 1000 to his credit. J. L. Bray of Boston is second with 801 points while J. E. Whittlesy of West Newton is close up with 800 points. R. M. White of Taunton is fourth with 798 and Harlow of Cambridge is fifth with 777. The next ten men in order are H. S. Benson, 766; J. Becker, Jr., 758; R. P. Root, 755; J. W. Tarrill, Jr., 753; T. C. Fisher, 745; E. W. Richardson, 739; W. H. Baxter, 714; S. W. Selfridge, 724; J. W. Raymond, 723; and C. A. Duyer, 718.
