CURRENT EVENTS

The army yesterday paid its tribute to that which the navy has paid to the memory of General Hodges and Robert Fulton, in the form of a monster military parade.

With the flag of the Perry Arctic Club flying at her masthead, the steamer Rosevelt, which bore Commander Perry up the front of the North Pole, arrived in New York harbor yesterday just in the nick of time to participate in the closing ceremonies of the first Fulton-American day today.

The Neptune, Great Britain's latest 29,250 ton Dreadnought, was launched at Portsmouth yesterday by the Duke of Albany. The bulkheads of this upper Dreadnought are so bravely armed that experts consider her practically unsinkable by a torpedo.

The Wright brothers are seeking an injunction against Glenn H. Curtiss and the Herring-Curtiss Company, to restrain the defendants from making, using, or selling the so-called Curtiss airplanes, on the grounds that Curtiss has infringed upon the Wright brothers' patent.

Burlin's statue of Victor Hugo was unveiled in Paris with elaborate ceremonies yesterday, and the week's celebrations to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the appearance of the "Chateau de la Reine" were thus inaugurated. There will be a ceremony at the Tuileries, a revival at the theatre of the same name, and a ceremony in front of Notre Dame with a procession of vagrants carrying torches.

The mayors of all the cities in Alaska and the editors of the leading newspapers have joined in a vote to pass the Alaska Resolutions, giving Alaska an elective Legislature.

President Taft spent yesterday at his Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition in Seattle, reviewing a parade of soldiers, marines, school children, Igorot Indians, Eskimos and Japanese in costume. The President was also in the Arctic Brotherhood, receiving a membership ticket inscribed upon carbon skin and embellished with twenty gold nuggets from as many Alaskan and Yukon sumps.

Loss of Old Men Will Not Cripple Team

Although Technology has lost four of her best men by graduation this year, there is a wealth of material which, with hard consistent work, should place her men well toward the top in the intercollegiate slate.

R. H. Howland, R. Ellis, J. N. Stephenson, and J. F. McCurdy have graduated. All these men are veterans, having placed several times for Technology, and the first two have captained a Technology team.

Coach Kenney has had the team come together at work early, but it is too soon to make any definite statement. Among the old men are veterans, having placed several times for Technology; and the first two have captured a Technology team.

W. Byland and L. Hart are two freshmen who are showing up well.
