TECHS TO BE DELIVERED

In order that men living near the Institute may have The Tech delivered to their homes on the day that it is issued, arrangements are being made with Arnold Utters to deliver The Tech to those men along with his other papers, with only the regular charge of one cent a copy. Arnold Utters has a large route which extends from Bolston Street, corner of Tremont, to the Franklin Avenue Branch from Newbury Street to the Hotel Somerset, Copeland Square, Trinity Church, St. James Avenue, and all cross streets from Commonwealth Avenue to the Charles River, and all intersecting streets between those points. He is well known among the students of the Institute, and will do his best to meet most of them.

Papers will be delivered between nine and seven in the afternoon. Special rates are offered if subscriptions are paid in advance. Letters should be addressed to The Tech in care of the Circulation Manager.

DONALD V. FELZER,
Circulating Manager.

A new year book, combining with the usual features of such publication also a collection of the Boston-Ath. Expox, has been issued. Not only does it include the usual index, but also a collection of the exhibits now being used by thousands of people every day in old Art Museum, but it has an introduction for each of the larger departments of the show, written by experts. The Year Book section gives information on nearly every conceivable subject, summing up Boston as a city, making a valuable reference guide, from which can be answered almost any troublesome questions as to "where to go and whom to see at a quick glance.

The big Ses line tube, 1300 feet in length and thirty-four feet wide, will be completed this week and the contract work which has been in progress for a year will be completed six weeks before the end of the time limit for the contractors. The work is the largest job of remote construction ever attempted in the West.

State Street Trust Co.
130 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE, BOSTON

In Class A, Merrill played Myers and Neff; Schmidt won; lost 0; Kaufman won; lost 1.

Class B-F. B. Silsbee won; lost 1; B. Jones won; lost 0; Low thurdle won.

Class C-No games played.

TECHS TO BE DELIVERED

In order that men living near the Institute may have The Tech delivered to their homes on the day that it is issued, arrangements are being made with Arnold Utters to deliver The Tech to those men along with his other papers, with only the regular charge of one cent a copy. Arnold Utters has a large route which extends from Boylston Street, corner of Tremont, to the Franklin Avenue Branch from Newbury Street to the Hotel Somerset, Copeland Square, Trinity Church, St. James Avenue, and all cross streets from Commonwealth Avenue to the Charles River, and all intersecting streets between those points. He is well known among the students of the Institute, and will do his best to meet most of them.

Papers will be delivered between nine and seven in the afternoon. Special rates are offered if subscriptions are paid in advance. Letters should be addressed to The Tech in care of the Circulation Manager.

DONALD V. FELZER,
Circulating Manager.

A new year book, combining with the usual features of such publication also a collection of the Boston-Ath. Expos, has been issued. Not only does it include the usual index, but also a collection of the exhibits now being used by thousands of people every day in old Art Museum, but it has an introduction for each of the larger departments of the show, written by experts. The Year Book section gives information on nearly every conceivable subject, summing up Boston as a city, making a valuable reference guide, from which can be answered almost any troublesome questions as to "where to go and whom to see at a quick glance.

The big Ses line tube, 1300 feet in length and thirty-four feet wide, will be completed this week and the contract work which has been in progress for a year will be completed six weeks before the end of the time limit for the contractors. The work is the largest job of remote construction ever attempted in the West.

State Street Trust Co.
130 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE, BOSTON

In Class A, Merrill played Myers and Neff; Schmidt won; lost 0; Kaufman won; lost 1.

Class B-F. B. Silsbee won; lost 1; B. Jones won; lost 0; Low thurdle won.

Class C-No games played.

TECHS TO BE DELIVERED

In order that men living near the Institute may have The Tech delivered to their homes on the day that it is issued, arrangements are being made with Arnold Utters to deliver The Tech to those men along with his other papers, with only the regular charge of one cent a copy. Arnold Utters has a large route which extends from Boylston Street, corner of Tremont, to the Franklin Avenue Branch from Newbury Street to the Hotel Somerset, Copeland Square, Trinity Church, St. James Avenue, and all cross streets from Commonwealth Avenue to the Charles River, and all intersecting streets between those points. He is well known among the students of the Institute, and will do his best to meet most of them.

Papers will be delivered between nine and seven in the afternoon. Special rates are offered if subscriptions are paid in advance. Letters should be addressed to The Tech in care of the Circulation Manager.

DONALD V. FELZER,
Circulating Manager.

A new year book, combining with the usual features of such publication also a collection of the Boston-Ath. Expos, has been issued. Not only does it include the usual index, but also a collection of the exhibits now being used by thousands of people every day in old Art Museum, but it has an introduction for each of the larger departments of the show, written by experts. The Year Book section gives information on nearly every conceivable subject, summing up Boston as a city, making a valuable reference guide, from which can be answered almost any troublesome questions as to "where to go and whom to see at a quick glance.

The big Ses line tube, 1300 feet in length and thirty-four feet wide, will be completed this week and the contract work which has been in progress for a year will be completed six weeks before the end of the time limit for the contractors. The work is the largest job of remote construction ever attempted in the West.

State Street Trust Co.
130 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE, BOSTON