men connected with the Institute number cally represents the circulation of your Institute boast of a daily student pub-of ads. Could the paper exist if it were hear the paper critieised by those who third of the student body should show activities? Is it right that only one of the three men in every three buys a copy of paring this number with the circulation for each issue.

The Tech still wants to get in touch with the one who drew this by

A very good cartoon has recently been received, but with no name stated. As it was received too late to be touched this will not be published, but the general manager would like to get into touch with the one who drew it, with the view of either meeting him in the upper Tech office any day after 1,45, requesting the same if the illustrator of it still wishes to keep his name
