

Y. M. C. A.

 the effect of one man's actions upon the rest of any community. It will take up the question of spontaneousness of service, of service as an expression of character, of service in response to a need. Is man free from the Law of Service? The groups will discuss also whether service is a privilege, a burden, or an obligation; whether Christianity is a matter of church going and prayer services, or whether it means something more useful to a community; whether what you are doing is turning all the world to your own good, or is turning all of you to the world's good. Finally will come the questions, "How did Christ express his mastery over men?" and, "Is service the expression of Christ's life in men?"

The entire time to be taken up by the dinner, the short address and the discussion afterward, will be not more than an hour and a quarter. The plan of the Association is to offer an opportunity for a good dinner, for obtaining knowledge of conditions among the less fortunate classes of Boston, and for a discussion informally, under efficient direction, of a man's social responsibility. The world needs men. These dinners will show you how to be useful.

In order that the committee in charge of the dinner may know how many plates to provide, the request is made that men who desire to attend will register at The Cage not later than Wednesday noon. By the interested cooperation of the Dining Room Management the expense of the dinner is reduced to a minimum. Dinner tickets will cost 20 cents.
