The Institute to be congratulated upon the selection of Mr. Barrows as Associate Professor of Hydraulic Engineering. He is a man who brings to her students not only a thorough knowledge of his subject but a large intellectual ability and a great deal of experience as a practicing hydraulic engineer.

The Juniors have a mighty good stab to pick their Prom Committee from.

If you can't make a decent looking poster, put it done by some one who can do well. Only a few copies should be in proof of the bulletin boards around the Institute.

It is said that 1910 wants to have a good showing in the football game. It is surely a hope in Institute as well as in class affairs.

MUSICAL CLUBS.

The musical clubs held their first out-of-town concert last night at MIT. The concert was held in the xaven Hall, and although the hall was not crowded the audience was extremely enthusiastic and seemed each number vigorously.

The program was a splendid one, containing the best numbers of each club. The first of the ten numbers was by the Glee Club, with "Yankee Dandy," and not get Fownes style.
