That Boston will have a Fourth of July as enthusiastic and patriotic as previous Independence days is written clearly in the determination of the Celebration Committee of Boston—1915's campaign for a saner Fourth. One of the first suggestions received by this committee was that the fireworks and illuminations should be held on the Charles River Basin and that a joint appropriation by the cities of Boston and Cambridge ought to result in a magnificent display.

Boston, May 11.—Three of the newest and fastest torpedo boat destroyers in the American Navy, Lamon, Smith and Preston, left the Charles River Basin today. They are to be tested over the week to make their first course during the next few days.

Chicago, May 11.—By photographers taken at Yerkes observatory, William Bay, Wisconsin, a peculiar formation in the tail of Halley's comet is revealed. In the picture made by Prof. E. E. Barnard, with the 10-inch lens, the tail of the comet divides into three strands at some distance from the head.

New York, May 11.—When Miss Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of the late governor of Florida, ascends the stand at the New York Navy Yard on Thursday to name the giant battleship Florida, which will be launched that morning, she will be escorted by a staff of sixty navy and five Florida girls, each of whom will have an official commission as "maids of honor" from the state.
