Perhaps one of the most beneficent institutions that has ever helped to uphold the name of the Institute will be brought into existence this afternoon by the Executive Committee of the Finance Commission. Some may argue that there is no need of any such provision, but recent experience has shown that not only is such a protective measure a good thing, but it is also an absolutely necessary one if the Institute is to uphold its name among the business interests of Boston and even outside districts. The arrangement as now outlined seems to the most suitable. Therefore it is up to the present arrangement will be that of the meeting this afternoon will be the most satisfactory. Therefore it is up to the matter definitely decided when all its aspects are uppermost in everyone's mind.

The present arrangement with the modification that will be made at the meeting this afternoon will be the most satisfactory. Therefore it is up to the matter definitely decided when all its aspects are uppermost in everyone's mind.
