It is with regret that The Tech must announce the resignations of C. C. Fallon, 1912, from the position of Advertising Manager; of A. W. Kenney, from the position of Circulation Manager, and of O. B. Denison, 1911, from the position of Managing Editor. It has been known for some time that it would not be advisable for these members to continue their work throughout the year, but The Tech was fortunate in having their assistance in the rather difficult times at the start of the year.

However, The Tech is fortunate in being able to announce the appointments of P. M. Tyler, 1912, to the position of Managing Editor; of H. W. Hall, 1912, to the position of Advertising Manager; of H. P. Fossenden, 1913, to the position of Circulation Manager.

As usual, the classes are rather slow in organizing this Fall. Although two weeks have passed since the commencement of the school year, the upper classmen have as yet held no meetings, and elections of class officers have not yet been held in any of the classes. As a result many of the organizations dependent upon class elections are unable to get real interest. The Institute Committee has held one meeting this term, but has not commenced its regular sessions because its membership will so soon be altered by the class elections. Is it not about time for the class officers to see that the classes get into running order for the year? The one class which seems to have been most interested in the coming year is the Sophomore class.

President of the class office, however, certain members of the classes seem to have plans and designs for control of the remaining three years. Attempts of a similar nature have been made in the past, but the most ambitious have failed on account of this obvious nature. Institute men do not take to politics in their affairs. They can distinguish between the man who has at heart the interest of his class and the man who is raised by his personal ambitions.
