Secures Tenth Place—Race Run in a Strong Nudge...

As was generally expected, Cornell won an easy victory over the field in the eleven annual Intercollegiate Cross-Country run. Coach Jack Murphy's predictions that his freshmen, Jones, would beat Beran, were realized, and hence the team took its place among the individual honors, his time being 31:34:15. Beran, who led the field last year, had to be content with second place, 31:42. Next came the two Harvard stars, Lawless and Jaques. These two, with P. Whittington, who finished sixth, being practically the whole Harvard team. Gray and Co. ran Yale in an unexpected seventh, respectively. Following them came Wolfe, the star of the Pennsylvania team. Kraker, another Cornell man, finished ninth, and L. O. Withington, a Tech man, was the winner, getting ninth position. Although in good condition, Whittington finished sixth, being the whole Harvard team. Gray and Co. ran Yale in an unexpected seventh, respectively.
