There is a fine treat in store for every man at the Institute, whatever his course, and the Civil Engi-structautemen is to be congratulated upon its originality in suggesting the "idea" and its initiative in engineering it through.
The main resistance to the social life at Tech has always been the hard and fast barriers which exist between the courses. Despite the general studies common to all courses, the student after his first year meets very few men in courses other than his own. As a result, his friendships are apt to be limited and his interests too highly specialized.
The Civil Engineering Society has formulated a plan which is intended to break down these barriers as much as possible and to make each man better acquainted with men from other courses. Their idea is to hold a dinner at the Union, November 25, to which members of all courses will be invited. A system of place cards, it is hoped, will prevent men from localizing by courses and will insure the desired socialitiy.
The entertainment planned is of interest to everybody and the committee in charge is certainly to be congratulated on its choice of entertainment. They could not have chosen more wisely.
It is to be hoped that this is but the first of many such joint meetings and that this get-together spirit will be developed more and more through the year.
