Electricals to Visit L Street Station

Those Who Did Not Go Last Thursday Expected to Go Today.

The Electrical Engineering Society will hold its second excursion to the L Street Station of the Edison Electric Company this afternoon, leaving the Lowell Building at 1:45 P. M. The party which made this trip last Thursday afternoon found it very instructive, and it is hoped that all members of the society who did not go then will take advantage of this second opportunity. It is expected that the committee will arrange to make a second try at inspecting the equipment of the Boston Opera House within a short time.
