MADERO SAYS HE IS PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Toneon Reported Captured By Rebels—Chihuahua in Grave Danger.

MADERO ESCAPES RAIDERS.

Plot of Revolution Hatched in San Antonio Early in

In spite of all rumors, Mexican official reports steadily state that the Díaz Government has crushed the chief rebel forces and that order has been restored in nearly all of the cities.

The revolutionists, however, report several small outbreaks in many areas, notably in which Toneon had been recaptured. The situation at Chihuahua is exceedingly dangerous and an attack was looked for at any moment. Madero and the railroad running to that city are in the hands of the revolutionists.

In the northwestern part of Mexico outbreaks have occurred in the extreme northeastern States.

During the night about 2000 rebels took possession of the railroad front opposite the city. A small force of soldiers engaged them from the city, but later it was claimed that no major attack had been made on the station or railroad.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all armed in preparation for a fight with the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have disclosed to many of the soldiers enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had driven the soldiers back into the city and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately surrounded by telegraph employees say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are
expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are
expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolutionists.

The citizens of Chihuahua are all
armed in preparation for a fight with
the ten thousand Maderists who are expected to arrive there.

The revolutionists are said to have
disclosed to many of the soldiers
enlisted from the city.

The revolutionists retreated toward
San Antonio de los Cobos, pursued by
a large force of cavalry.

It is reported that the rebels had
driven the soldiers back into the city
and had captured them. But later it was claimed that no general attack had
been made on the station or railroad.

The revolutionists were immediately
surrounded by telegraph employees
say that Madero is in the hands of the revolu-

...