has so far proved impossible, because there has been no code of ethics, which was broad enough to cover the engineering field. For this reason each engineer must form a code of ethics of his own. "No engineer should adopt his name to the explanation of any company which is a fake, a sham, a snare, and all engineers should see to it that they never accept graft in any form."

At the close of the lecture Mr. Lieb was given a vote of thanks by the F. E. U. and was elected an honorary member of the society. The society also gave Professor Jackson a vote of thanks for his kindness in preparing so excellent a luncheon and lecture and to the short talk by Professor Dewey the meeting adjourned.

A table of statistics on scholarship has been compiled by the Scholarship Committee of Stanford University, for the year 1909-1910. The figures are given in the following:

- Two-thirds of the women, the figures favor those who are members of sororities, for the year 1909-1910. The figures for the year 1909-1910 show a very large increase over the figures for the year 1908-1909. The figures for the year 1909-1910 show a very large increase over the figures for the year 1908-1909.

The enrollment at Princeton this year shows an increase of 49 over that of last year, making the total 1409. In the classification by states, New York holds the lead in the number of students, with New Jersey and Pennsylvania following. The Senate at Class is considering the adoption of a college plan.

The Dean of Women of Cornell in a speech at Michigan expresses her appreciation of the work done by the society and the interest of the students. She says that the advancement of women in the engineering field has been greater in recent years than it has been in the past. The society has had a large demand for the book, and it is hoped that it will be in the hands of the several state commissions within the next week.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS.

A library erected to the memory of Professor George Oscar James is now at work, and it is hoped that its report will be returned to the several state commissions of the next week.
