meetings. President Kruger was toastmaster of the evening, and the speakers were Dean Burton, Bjaror Rand, and Dr. Talbot. President Kruger spoke of the wisdom of the class in waiting till after mid-years to hold the dinner, and the Dean explained that from now on the members of the Class of 1914 should consider themselves seasoned veterans in the fight for South Africa, and that he wore his farmer's felowship shown.

Many yells were given and many goodadies were passed around.

GEN PIET A. CRONJE DIES AT KLERKSDORP

Gen. Piet A. Cronje, “The Lion of South Africa,” who has been called the Transvaal’s best soldier, died Saturday at Klerksdorp in his native land. Gen. Cronje’s brilliant leadership in the Boer War became more surprising when it is known that he had no school nor military training, and that he wore his farmer’s clothes to battle.

Cronje was one of those who refused to pay taxes in the Potchefstroom district—this being one of the incidents leading up to the war. He was also one of the prime movers in the re-establishment of the republic, and his men fired the first shot in the war for independence.

holders of season tickets are entitled to two seats at the dinner, and the speakers of the republic, and his men fired the first shot in the war for independence.
