BLOOD CURLING SCENES
AT THE TECHNIQUE RUSH

TECHNIQUE BALL
GAME A THRILLER

MUSICAL CLUBS BIG CONCERT LAST NIGHT
Before a large audience the Clubs perform with Credit.

ARCHITECTURAL SOCIETY HOLDS THEATRICALS.

Play follows Reception Brilliant Affair and Dance

The Architectural Society broke into theatricalities yesterday evening in a fine building with "At the Gate," a one-act sketch, as a vehicle. It dealt with Freshmen's choice of a course and his ultimate admission into the course 4. The cast was as follows:

Hoffheinsmorens
W. S. Davis
Grudparabol
W. D. Foster
Toni, a Freshman
F. A. Burton Jack
F. A. Pretzinger
""B"" Spirit of Architecture
J. H. Scard
The audience for this play followed a reception by the Society.

A distinctly unique feature of the affair was the unusual costume that lined the corridors leading up to the Architectural room. These were lent only to the weary wayfarer who on his way to the attraction over four flights of stairs.

Followings the play, a dance was held.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of The Tech:

It is about time for the Union committee to see to it that the Musical clubs are not spending their first year at the same expense. Many clubs are now being formed by freshmen like Tech men, in the Union. Few examples can be mentioned showing the childish actions and rowdism of a number of freshmen, and for that matter, for older students.

One of the recent "roughhouses" occurred in the Union yesterday afternoon after the final of the Marathon Race. Several freshman boys were found in living rooms chasing each other around the room, jumping over benches and tables, until finally one of them jumped out of one of the windows and landed on the ground. The Innovation men have the loose to report the affair to the main charge, in the charge of the Union committee. It is a scandalously destroyed dance! NO! HE DIDN'T FALL. He was merely being held back by a hairy hystery, hoping that no one had, seen the affair.

Doubtless these men today are chucking themselves over the fact that they enjoyed their roughhouse and were clever enough to get away without the addition of a bat—in addition to other damage to the room. This may appeal to them as smart and clever, but to an upholder of the University, it is indeed a pretty state of affairs if the Union committee has not to at least have a man around continually to "get out" the rowsdies and catch the house acts. The Union should be the pride of every Tech man, and should be used by all as a gentlemanly gathering place: but this cannot be, unless some of our younger gentlemen conduct themselves with gentlemanly conduct.

Neither true yours,

Observant Senior

CHEMICAL SOCIETY NOTICE

Nominations papers, signed by five members, for officers of the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Chemical Society for next year will be received at the Institute Committee at the Cage.

Thursday, April 20
2.00-20 Tech Show—Shubert Theatre.

Friday, April 21
2.00-20 Tech Show—Shubert Theatre.
8.00 Junior Prom—Hotel Soteret.