THE TECH, BOSTON, MASS., APRIL 24, 1911.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

How did Faunce act? Why, naturally, he did.

Some of the chorus acted like kids, others like kiddos.

There must have been some mistake in Smith's being a boy. Sure, an' he made a lovely girl.

Cupid: Last chance to see the best show in years.

On Wednesday, in Malden.

The Pro was a rather classy affair.

What are you going to do this Summer?

Tickets to the Competitive Drill on Wednesday will be 25 cts., on sale just in front of the Armory on Wednesday afternoon.

THE TECH wishes to congratulate the management of Tech Show 1911 on the excellent production which they placed before the public on Thursday and Friday afternoon of last week. There is no doubt that "Frenzied French" is the best Show ever and has set a new standard for performances of the future. May your financial success be as great as your dramatic and financial success. We hope that you can carry on your performance in the annual Rush with such spirit as you proved this year.

To the Editor of the Tech:

Will you allow me a few inches of space to voice my sentiments as to the manner in which the annual Technique Rush was carried out this year? With the field in better condition and the spectators' chances more favorable for seeing all parts of the Rush than ever before, the Technique Board made no effort whatever to handle the crowd and thus afford those who came a second time. I ask the Technique Board in all fairness to everyone concerned to back it up. Hoping that the Prom was a rather classy affair.
