Shirts that are to pave the way to the realm of success: the real success in life requires something more. What good if that something is wanting, no matter if he is a prince! It needs no further emphasis that complete success never comes to the man who is in the habit of leading a dissolute life. It therewith pays out, while sometimes revealing the reason for his coming to Tech, to give a moment of reflection to that part of the things in life which is quite as essential and attractive things with a only Tech can give.

I wish to apologize for the foregoing remarks, the trub of which any man with but an atom of sense can not fail to recognize. It does not proceed as to preach any sermon which, however, is not my business. The one point I wish to make clear is that Tech is not the place for those who would, in any way, bring her discred. That there is a block sleep, wherever he is, is true, especial- ly when the Institute is growing to such large proportions. It is, in spite of her pe- nescent growth, let every true Tech man gather her, and preserve and pre- serve the good name of Technology.

The gentleman who, perhaps momentarily forgetting himself for being such, by deliberately taking a pocket-book containing personal letters from his coat pocket hung on one of the posts rack at the Physical Laboratory (Walter) Wednesday afternoon, $3.00 and 50¢, would avoid jots of trouble by at once returning the article in ques- tion to the Cage addressed to its owner. It contains only personal letters valuable to the owner alone, and absolutely if one no one else, being not a single cent of good money in it, at that gentleman who would have already found out with the exception of an Italian paper money of small value, and a ticket or ticket to both of which he is welcome if he absolutely have the need. I wish to remind him that there can be no trouble in his being discovered if he does not realize the serious situation and would rather get the whole length of the trouble. For his information, I would say that I know for certain that the article was a pocket book containing personal letters from his coat pocket hung on one of the posts rack at the Physical Laboratory (Walter) Wednesday afternoon, $3.00 and 50¢, and that the Wednesday afternoon section is a small one. He can very well return the whole thing, or that part of the whole which to him is absolutely of no use by mailing them in an envelope to the Cage or 127 Newbury St. If by May 1, I don’t get them, the detectives will have to call on that gentle- man, which means sure trouble. Allow me to thank The Tech for the use of the space in your valuable publication. Yours truly,

TO DRAIN MARSH

LAND IN REVERE

The Board of Health to Improve Sanitary Conditions and Eliminate the Mosquito

Under the authority of the Board of Health of Revere, the extensive marsh lands of that town are to be drained, made more healthful and attractive land for build- ing purposes. Revere has a larger area of marsh than any other town in Massachusetts, and the recent rapid increase in its population, together with real estate speculation, has caused the crowding of two or late arrivals into these marshes. This has gone to an extent that the resulting unsanitary conditions compelled the Board of Health to purchase another building in one location, which fact brought considerable hardship upon many purchasers of building lots.

To solve this problem, the Board has decided that the only way to remove the unsanitary conditions by draining the marsh. This will be done by cutting through the marsh in such a way as to effectively drain the ground and convert it into not only safe ground to build upon, but also into an extremely desirable location.

A further benefit resulting from this effort is the elimination of the mosquito pest. The methods used will be substantially the same as those employed under similar conditions to reclaim great areas of swamp land in New Jersey. The estimated cost of the whole job for the 100 acres that will first be drained, is only $500, and the board is authorized to go ahead on the job without a special appropriation, but with the success of this first job, up to 20 acres, other sections of the town will be treated the same way.
