Saturday afternoon at Providence, the Show, the first show of the year, got under way with a big victory over Brown University by a score of 94 to 32. Three Institute records went by the board during the games and the final result showed a clean-up for Technology, as they allowed Brown only 32 points. The score was larger than even the most generous booster was willing to give us in the beginning of the season. It will make Dartmouth sit up and take notice.

The records that got a boost were in the field events where an incentive could not but help a good deal in the rest of the meet and also when fighting for the championship at Springfield. Bill Sellinoff broke the pole vault record held by Allen, setting the mark at 11 feet 10 inches. Burton also moved the hammer three more feet than in 1912, and the chains were again broken, this time by Chamberlin to a distance of 117 feet 3.4 in., for another new record. This bunch of points together with a few appropriate remarks presented by the freshman, Wilson contributed by winning both dashes were enough in themselves to give us a winning lead.

Of the fourteen events, the team brought home first in twelve with perhaps ten and one third. The marks made in the different events were all good and the rest of the two years too. Brown, one was a new college record made by Barbrick and the shot put. He came within four feet of the intercollegiate record set by Monson.

Mr. Litchfield acknowledged a number of fellows who went with the team to cheer them on. He said that there should have been a great many more cheering sections but that circumstances were not favorable for them. The weather man was good today and with the rest of them they had a good day's sport. The men all got along in better shape than in the meet against Brown, and did about as predicted. The team will be able to carry them on. Looking back on the meet for the first time on to next Friday when they are looking for another win.
