Mr. Cumnott is a member of the German Academy of Science and a member of the Austrian Archaeological Institute, and a corresponding member of the Academy of Belgium and Institute of France. He was also elected a member of the University of Breslau in 1901 and again in 1906.

His lectures are as follows:

Monday, October 9--The Chaldains and the Formation of an Astral Religion.

Thursday, October 12--Greece and the Athenian Empire.

Monday, October 16--The Dissimulating Astral Religion in the Roman Empire.

Thursday, October 19--Astral Theology, Mythology, Prophecy, Mystical Revelations and Biblical Parallelism.

Saturday, October 21--Astral Eschatology.

The Lowell Institute lectures are free to all who can present a ticket, and are open to everyone, but only by ticket. Admission tickets for the first lecture will be mailed, one to each applicant, in the order of application, and until September 28. Orders must be accompanied with the name of the person applying, by letter, for each seat required, and the request for the same will be stated on the application envelope. Orders will be filled in the order in which they are received, and the supply will be exhausted. To hold a seat for the first lecture, one must order a ticket before the day the lecture begins.

The Lowell Institute ladles are held in the Union College, and are open to all. Admission tickets are free to everyone, but only by ticket. Admission tickets for the first lecture will be mailed, one to each applicant, in the order of application, and until September 28. Orders must be accompanied with the name of the person applying, by letter, for each seat required, and the request for the same will be stated on the application envelope. Orders will be filled in the order in which they are received, and the supply will be exhausted. To hold a seat for the first lecture, one must order a ticket before the day the lecture begins.

The Boston Athenaeum has offered to exchange their regular lectures for the Lowell Institute lectures. They will hold a series of lectures on Thursday evenings, beginning Monday, October 6, and will continue until November 30. The lectures will be given by Mr. Cumnott in the afternoon, beginning Monday, October 6.

The President of the Lowell Institute, A. A. Stockdale, has suggested that a minstrel show be held sometime during the term to aid in raising funds for the Institute. The show will be held in the Hell's Street Theatre. The President of the Lowell Institute, A. A. Stockdale, has suggested that a minstrel show be held sometime during the term to aid in raising funds for the Institute. The show will be held in the Hell's Street Theatre.

Yesterday afternoon it was too wet for the third annual minstrel show, but the competition was certainly not below the standard of the previous two years. In fact, it was a great improvement over the first year. The first third has gone off very well, and the second third will be announced soon. The third third is planned for next week, and will be announced later.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL.

Yesterday afternoon it was too wet for the third annual minstrel show, but the competition was certainly not below the standard of the previous two years. In fact, it was a great improvement over the first year. The first third has gone off very well, and the second third will be announced soon. The third third is planned for next week, and will be announced later.

We are to hear the old familiar refrain, "Tsku satric htlkjmnsad ojaf himse." It is just as necessary for the men of the class of 1912 to be able to carry the double responsibility of being a member of the Lowell Institute and attending the lectures as it is for them to be able to carry the double responsibility of being a member of the Freshman football team and attending the games. It is just as necessary for the men of the class of 1912 to be able to carry the double responsibility of being a member of the Lowell Institute and attending the lectures as it is for them to be able to carry the double responsibility of being a member of the Freshman football team and attending the games.