ENTERTAINMENT IN UNION LAST NIGHT

Musical Clubs Gave Excellent Concert to Crowd of Over One Hundred Men.

Last evening, in the Union, the Musical Clubs gave an unusually good and well-balanced entertain ment which called forth many enthusiastic plaudits of applause from the hundred or more men who found it possible to get away from their studies long enough to attend. In spite of the fact that very little had been announced in connection therewith, the attendance was extraordinarily large, better even than on the previous concert, and the efforts of the fellows were evidently well-looked after, which, as is suggested by the number of encores demanded, will repeat.

This was the second good entertainment which has been provided by the committee for the season, and was attended were heard to express the hope that it will not, by any means, be a termination of the series of musical programs.

Some of last year's show men were scheduled to attend, but they were not there; they are probably principals in this year's show, which necessarily takes up a large portion of their time. It is felt that they could well afford to give an entire evening just at this time. However, we may hear from them later.

The complete program was as follows:

"Take Me Back to Tech."
"Pink Lady Waltz."
"Sweet Corn."

CREW CANDIDATES CALLED FOR MONDAY

Manager to Arrange for Use of B. A. Boathouse for Practice.

Manager K. C. Gere of the crew announced that crew practice will begin regularly in the Gym next Monday. A number of possible candidates have already been over to the Gym, but no regular work has yet been inaugurated. The manager is trying to arrange with the A. D. A. for the use of its basement for actual rowing practice, and will probably make final arrangements next week. A word of warning on this occasion is that of finances.

For a time last year at Annanoo a failure of the continuation of it as an Institute seems almost inevitable, while this year, although there are likely three men of last year's crew who will certainly start on the Teaneck men are K. C. Gere, Sweet, and Whitteve, a number of the under graduates have already signified their intention of coming out, and it is expected many more will record Monday for workout.

The well-established crew made last year at Annanoo favors the continuation of it as an Institute as much as it did last year, and they hope that a permanent home for the crew is not far distant. Improved weather will no doubt aid in procuring a shell.

ELECTRICAL MEETING

Eminent Electric Engineer to Address E. E. Society.

A new scheme for meetings is to be given its first trial by the Electrical Engineering Society in the old Union o'clock Thursday evening, March 5th. Mr. C. R. Adams, of the Adams Electrical Company, a member of the committee which plans the evening and will address the society on the subject of "Legal Engineering."

Mr. Adams is a typical Englishman, a first-class lawyer, and also into some detail regarding the actuarial theory involving large interests. Mr. Adams has appeared chiefly as a lecturer on bridge engineering, and he is unusual in being a member of the committee which has prepared the plans for the new C. E. Society building. His mastery in the essential relations of law and engineering is widely known.

The big event of the "Civies' program is a dinner on Wednesday night, the big event of the Electrical Society in the old Union o'clock Friday evening, March 6th. Mr. E. C. Long, of the Boston and New York and Boston railroad designers have made last year, will be the guest of the evening and will address the society on the subject of "Foundations."

Mr. Rollins graduated from Tech in 1871. He is a member of the Institute Corporation and was this year elected president of the Alumni Association.

The firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins has announced the formation of an independent foundation consulting firm, and Mr. Rollins is considered an authority on this branch of contracting work. He was one of the founders of the "Civies' last year, and those who heard him in his talk on the subject of "Foundations."
