MECHANICAL AND CIVILS TO MEET

BOSTON, MASS., FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1912

PRICE TWO CENTS

INTER-COURSE RACE COMES SATURDAY

Course Two Seems to Have Best Chance, But Score Will Be Close.

The annual Inter-Course race will take place Saturday afternoon over a distance of two miles, and the score will be close. Courses 1 and 2 have had the benefit of a cross-country trip, at least a few months ago, but they are not strong enough to win this race. The Mechanicals have the inside chances, as two of the three members of the crew are expected to be present. This race is the strongest of the season, as the two races of last year were won by the same team. The Mechanicals have four members of the crew, and the Engineering has two. The score will be close, and the Mechanicals will win.

T. C. A. HEARS REV. ALLEN STOCKDALE

Popular Boston Minister Speaks Before Large Gathering in Union.

"What's the use?" was the subject of the talk given at the Technology Christian Association meeting yesterday noon by Rev. Allan Stockdale. The large numbers of men present at the address were in the presence of the dean of the school of religion. The speaker's name, "What's the use?" said the speaker, "is the way a man is physically and mentally tired out. Is that the way we think?" These questions were asked to present the man's soul to the world and the spirit of men's bodies and minds. It was scientific fact that man can do the same amount of work, and do it better, in five hours when his mental and body are fresh, than he can accomplish in eight hours with a fatigued body and mind. It is not expedient that a man keep careful watch over his habits, and thereby not only increases his efficiency, but guards against dangerous attitudes of mind which leads to a condition. "Oh, what's the use?"

"There is another reason for this. In which a fellow becomes discouraged. When one has been grudging cold on what he considers the right thing, and when some one else, who is unscrupulous, steps in, and by his tricks, takes the place of the man who was doing the right thing, this is false reason. The person who is not founded upon a rock will set his desires. He is the man who has been found not to be so honest as he appears. It is not, however, that they are less honest, but that the sky-rocket may go ahead of the man who is honest. This is the case.

The work on Technique, 1912, is rapidly coming to a close, in a little less than three weeks it will make its appearance at the annual rush on the campus, at 12 o'clock. The book is now on the press, and the man who is rushing through everything will be ready on the date of the annual. The work of the work will be in the hands of the members of the Board is already in sight, and practically all that remains is the selling of the books and collecting from the advertisers.
