The business of the Tech Show has increased so much that this year it was considered best to create the office of treasurer to take over the finances work which formerly was involved in the business manager. The responsibilities of this was given to Mr. Walter D. Keith. He spoke of the many duties of the business manager and his assistants, and then proceeded to give some information with regard to the prospective trips for this season, which include a trip to New Hampton and possibly one to New York if sufficient support for the Show can be obtained there. Furthermore, instead of giving two afternoons performances in Boston, as has been the custom heretofore, because of the liability of getting a theatre for an evening, the management has endeavored to secure the Boston Opera House, which will all but guarantee an attendance to be given in the evening, affording the "tired business man" an opportunity to see the Show which would not be possible otherwise.

Mr. Keith then returned an earnest plea for more candidates for the business department. This department has charge of contracts and the sending of all money. Two members of the management were present from three Freshmen. The Freshmen are considered most promising, and there is a good opportunity for receiving a profit in this department.

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.

766.0x1025.0

KOMMER’S DINNER.

(Continued from Page 1.)

The next speaker was the Publicity Manager, Mr. Whitwell. He told of the work of his department and announced that the poster competition would begin December 10. Details will be published in THE TECH later. Mr. Whitwell had a letter from Mr. Hoey, the athletic manager, in which he expressed the hope that the Hammer’s dinner would be a success and that the Show would also prove profitable as the athletic department is so greatly in need of funds.

Mr. Fred, the stage manager of the "Jane," followed Mr. Whitwell and emphasized the proportion of students as stage men and make-up artists. And especially urged to come out as there was considerable interest in the proposition by the students. Mr. F. J. Finkel assured the management is endeavoring to secure the numerous illustrations from his own office of treasurer to take over the financial work which formerly was considered best to create the Newell College, which will meet these conditions under which each song is called upon and responded with a hearty congratulations. The toastmaster called on Mr. George E. Sanger, who was received by his audience.

But the most interesting part of the program was the announcement of the inclusion of another number in the Show, which would not be possible other-wise.