He spoke of the importance of the Junior Class as a factor in the Institute's social life. "The freshmen are not ready for it, and the sophomores are occupied with field day. The Dean placed great stress on the Freshman's Day dinner, which will take place next Saturday, December (Continued to Page 3.)

1914 FROM RESULTS.

Hurlbut, Fox, Morse, Crowell and Hillier Elected.

The results of the Junior Promenade place Frederick L. Hurlbut, Charles E. Fox, John C. Morse, Donald G. Crowell and Albert H. Hillier on the committee. A feature of the election was its closeness, in spite of the fact that over one hundred ballots were cast and votes were well scattered among the twenty men on the list.

The election is of great interest for it is one of the important committees appointed to run one of the most junior events. All who have attended a Junior Prom know what an important social event it is, and a well chosen committee assures a successful affair. The five men who were elected are prominent in the affairs of their class. Hurlbut won the hockey championship last year, and is the manager of this year's team. Fox has been prominent generally in athletics and especially in track meets. Morse and Crowell have both taken part in class affairs and are popular among their classmates. Hillier carried a principal part in last year's Tech Show. The total vote cast for each man are as follows: P. H. Barnes, 20; G. W. Blakey, 22; W. H. Brotherton, 55; H. N. Cauley, 12; D. G. Crowell, 23; R. C. Bemance, 23; E. H. Duff, 26; T. E. Duffield, 20; C. E. Fox, 50; D. Gould, 12; A. D. Hillier, 28; R. H. Huff, 12; T. H. Hurwitz, 27; P. F. Madison, 14; E. F. Met-"
