UNION FINANCE REPORT SUBMITTED

Small Profit Shown in Statement But Few Meals Served Than Last Year.

The following report of the Union finances in December 1, 1912, has been submitted by the committee to all who are interested. It must be borne in mind that in the following statement, covering a period of two months, the Institute makes no charge for rent or interest on a capital invested; neither is the expense of maintaining the Cage taken into account, and it can readily be seen that a profit of $195 would be wholly inadequate to meet any charge for the essential Cage game, which charges should be made if we are to derive any net profit on the expense of the Union maintenance.

COLLEGE HOLIDAYS.

The following statistics have been compiled showing the seven leading eastern colleges Harvard being the foremost member of this happy holiday league, the academic year of 1912-13, Harvard is the only college to observe Columbus Day. Four colleges, Harvard, Columbia, Brown and Pennsylvania, observe Washington's Birthday as a holiday. Memorial Day is observed by Harvard, Columbia, Brown and Harvard, and Columbus Day, which is now tnder construction, this new Boylston street subway extension, is observed by all colleges.

The third annual winter Concert of the Combined Musical Clubs was held last night in Copley Hall. From the enthusiasm of the student body and the response to the concert, the success of the concert in the future is assured. The concert was very present and indicated by their applause and their demand for encores that they were highly satisfied with the music.

The orchestra was the first to play and received much credit upon themselves. Indeed, many thought they proved conclusively that they could handle satisfactorily the orchestral part of the Tech Show. The Glee Club ended the program with a song that called for an encore. The last club to appear was the Hasso Club, and the impression that they showed over former years was re-markable. Their choice of selections and their rendering reflected great credit on the club.

V. M. F. Tallman, '14, gave two tenor solos which were encored. Each of the clubs gave another selection, and the program was particularly appreciated, and the courteous of opinion was that the clubs had turned out fine music.

After the concert the chairs were removed, the floor cleared out and the dancing season started. The music was furnished by Poule's Orchestra. The hall was beautifully decorated with Technology banners and the ceiling was hidden with green vines and decorations. Moonlight dances, which were innova-tions for Tech, were introduced last Wednesday with much great approval, and it was after 2 o'clock before the discotheque ended. The marquis were Mrs. Richard Mac-arthur, Mrs. Alfred E. Utter, Mrs. Chase, John B., '14, G. A. Bremner, '12, E. C. Taylor, '14, and A. C. Sherman, '14.

The advantages were very great, and the dancing season started with a good show, and this will be a great help to the clubs.
