ELECTIONS TO MANAGING BOARD OF VOLUME XXXII OF THE TECH ANNOUNCED.

S. H. Taylor Chosen General Manager For Coming Year--Successful Close of Vol. XXXII

After Many Hardships.

With the publication of this issue of THE TECH, Volume XXXII is succeeded by the new staff of Vol. XXXIII, the elections to which are published in the editorial column. As was enacted last year, the old board gives place to the new on the first of April for the purpose of giving the men a chance of getting assistance from the former members. Under these conditions the paper may continue publication next year with experienced men.

Vol. XXXII reflects the success of the paper's first year in excellent condition, both financially and with respect to men. The old staff members are much in demand, and the new board will have the advantage of having a talented and capable group of writers in their midst. The new staff are already at work making plans for the future of the paper.

The idea of establishing an editorial staff was suggested. Men who came out for the paper worked in the editorial department, and thereby increased its efficiency. The members of the staff are always on the lookout for anything that is worthy of notice or criticism, and in this way more Institute news is covered editorially than would be possible with but one man doing the work.

The system has also the advantage of developing men who, through experience, are better fitted for their college work for work on the paper. The old board commenced the year with 100% financial and with respect to men.

The first returns seem to be favorable. The count thus far is not known. The first return seems to be a success. The paper is expected to do well this year with the new staff.

The Tech editors are urged to continue the excellent work in succeeding issues.
