PROMINENT SPEAKERS AT JUNE CONFERENCE

College Men From All Parts of Globe at Northfield This Summer.

June 26th of next month will mark the opening of the annual Student Conference, held at Northfield, and many college men are looking forward to the few days they will spend there as delegates from all of the foremost colleges in the East. Technological, athletics, and earnest efforts are being made to send a large representation from the Institute to the Conference. The T. C. A. is most active in this work, and the association hopes that it will be able to send a larger delegation to the conference than it did last year. Any men who are interested are asked to confer with Mr. L. H. Talbot, the secretary of the T. C. A.

An unusually excellent program has been arranged for the annual meeting this summer. The most noted speakers from practically all parts of the globe, will address the delegations on many of the problems facing college work, and College Christian Associations. Daniel Charles R. Brown, of the Yale Divinity School, will be present with student work, and Mr. Edward C. Carter, a graduate of Harvard, has worked considerably with Y. M. C. A. advancement in India, and will be among the speakers. Mr. C. T. Wain, a graduate of Yale, and formerly secretary of the Chinese Student Christian Association in America, is a prominent political leader in his native land, and Bishop C. H. Brent, all the way from the Philipinnes, will also be of much interest to the delegates.

TESTS MADE ON COPPER WIRE BY SENIORS

The copper wire that is strong in the rear of the Union and which has been causing so much comment of late, is a part of the thesis work of F. H. Achard and H. E. Randall. It is well known among electrical engineers that the resistance of large copper wire is different for alternating and direct currents. This difference, especially at high frequency of current, is due to skin effect. That is to say most of the current is carried by the outer layers while the core of the wire may be carrying little or no current, or even a current in the opposite direction. Such an effect is especially noticeable in wire of large diameter, such as four inches, which has a diameter of more than four inches.

This effect has been both calculated and measured for solid copper wire. The object of the thesis of Achard and Randall is to determine the effects of currents of this kind on stranded wire and if possible bi-metallic cable. To do this they had to construct the line instead in the rear of the Union as well as manufacture a large slide wire bridge with which to measure the increase of resistance and inductance.
